

Samsung's Gear S2 smartwatch has received a price cut in the United States, where retailer Adorama is now offering a cumulative discount of $100 off the wearable device's listed price, which is $300. Those purchasing the device will receive a mail-in-rebate of $50. Plus, you can use coupon code 50OFFJAN to get the remaining $50 off, taking the total discount to $100, meaning you'll effectively have to pay $200. For more information on the offer, which ends January 20, head to the Source 2 link below. The Gear S2 is officially being sold for $300 in the US. Other third party retailers like Amazon are also selling the Tizen-powered watch at the same price. Source 1 | Source 2 |...
