

PC games very rarely have mobile versions and that's to be expected since a mobile device can't give the same experience as a desktop. Even if you were to use a mobile device that came packed with the best hardware available, playing the game wouldn't be the same. Remotr is a desktop streaming app that comes with iOS, Android, and Windows Phone clients and it seeks to challenge this very notion. The app lets you play games installed and running on your Windows PC from your mobile phone or tablet. The apps can detect which games you have installed and you can launch a game on your computer from one of the mobile apps. The mobile apps let you configure on-screen game controls to play the games.

To use Remotr you will have to sign up for a free account. Once you've signed up, download and install the desktop app and the mobile app. Sign in to the apps and make sure both your PC and your tablet are on the same Wi-Fi network. Select your PC from those listed.
